Announces

SPRING MEMBERSHIP INTERVIEWS

The Jefferson Literary and Debating Society would like to invite you to interview for membership of their Spring 2021 Class. The Jefferson Society is the oldest organization at U.Va, and its past members have included a future U.S. president, as well as future Senators, Nobel Laureates, and world-famous poets. As a literary and debating society, the members of the Jefferson Society meet weekly on Friday nights to deliver speeches on topics that impassion them, to debate over pressing matters facing the University or the country, to discuss the literature of today or of antiquity, and to converse with friends, old and new. Interviews generally last 30-45 minutes and involve discussions on topics of your choosing with three to four members of the Society. Interviews are designed to function as an intellectual conversation that will allow you to defend any arguments you choose to make. All interviews will take place virtually from February 6th to 12th; please find more information at jeffersonsociety.org. To attend an information session, sign up here.
